Washington, D.C. - Today, The Enlisted Association of the National Guard of the United States (EANGUS) is honored to announce a new partnership with Webster University. Founded in 1915, Webster is a private non-profit university with students studying at campus locations in North America, Europe, Asia and Africa and in a robust learning environment online making it an ideal option for Troops both home and abroad.

Daniel Elkins, the Director of the Veterans Education Project—the wing of EANGUS that tackles issues that specifically impact Student Veterans—said, “our partnership with Webster is extremely exciting because even though this institution is over 100 years old they are still looking to innovate and finding new ways to better serve Student Veterans for years to come.”

Veterans and prospective students can learn more about enrolling in Webster University degree programs by visiting online at <https://www.webster.edu/>.
